

Active Parenting

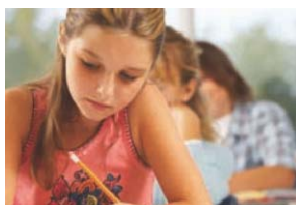

“The material was very practical and easy to apply...I would highly recommend this class to every parent no matter the ages of their children.”

Parenting is the hardest job in the world – and the one for which we have the least training. Think about it. Job duration is 24/7 for life. Our training is the modeling our own parents provided and whatever “how to books” we can get our hands on.

Attending this program, you will be provided with skills that will help you develop cooperation, responsibility, courage and self-esteem in your children. You’ll also learn positive, non-violent discipline techniques so you can avoid power struggles. With these tips in effective parenting, and many more, you will be sure to make parenting decisions with confidence when confronted with difficult situations in the future.

The result: both you and your children will be much happier. Turn the stress of raising children well into a fun and exciting adventure for the entire family. Sign up today for an Active Parenting session and get ready to see changes in yourself and your children.
